

Councilmember Carrie Ziegler is a proud resident of East Point, where her love for community service has grown. She is a capable, hard-working individual who isn't afraid to dig into the details of complex issues the City of East Point is facing. Carrie understands East Point's challenges and has been willing to engage with residents and elected officials to explore and propose solutions that will lead to a better quality of life for everyone.

As a resident, she has co-founded the East Point Environmental Collective, served on the city's comprehensive plan steering committee, volunteered on her neighborhood association board, and been a community organizer and advocate.
